UX/UI designer in training who's on a mission to make the digital world a little less frustrating and a lot more delightful. Before getting into design, I gained invaluable experience in entrepreneurship and I was general manager in the retail industry for five years. Seeking new avenues for professional growth and development, I took the leap and ventured to Scotland to refine my leadership skills. But haven't stop there. For the past year, I've been living life to the fullest in sunny Spain, meanwhile immersing myself in the thrilling world of blockchain technology and cryptocurrency. I'm confident that my unique blend of skills and interests would make me an ideal candidate for any design-related position.
